Introduction and Approval of Prospective Senators (Mid-Term Elections)

The senators will now hold their Midterm Election. Prospective senators are asked to leave the Senate meeting until called upon, in which they will re-enter the meeting alone to give their prepared speech and defense of their candidacy for DASB Senate. Senators are encouraged to take notes and look over prospective senator’s application. Each candidate must earn a majority of the vote, with the voters being current DASB Senators attending this meeting. The first thirteen candidates with a majority of the vote will have won the election, so long as the last two are not bound by a tie — in that circumstance, neither will have won without a runoff election.
